

Indicates whether contained model objects capture structural of quantitative variability